Highlights of Simply Slavic Baking Contest Rules

Saturday, June 20, 2015

Deadline to accept entry applications is Monday, June 15, 2015.

Bakers should have or have access to an e-mail address as most, if not all, communication between contestants and organizers will be by e-mail. Bakers should check their e-mails frequently for communication from the organizers of the Simply Slavic Baking Contest.

Entry fee is $5 and is non-refundable. Entries must be from non-professionals.

Baked goods will be accepted at Joe Maxx on Simply Slavic Day from 11am-1pm.

Judging begins at approximately 2pm at Joe Maxx.

There will be a maximum of ten (10) contest participants on a first-come basis.

Presentation will be limited to what will be shown individually to the judges with their baked good. Bakers may bring special plates, silverware, napkins; but Simply Slavic and Joe Maxx staffs are not responsible for loss, theft, damage or breakage of these personal items.

No baked goods can be submitted or will be accepted that have to be frozen, refrigerated or heated. Entry will be presented to the judges at room temperature.

The baker is required to bring two (or 1 ½ dozen) of their baked good entry. Some of their baked goods will be used for judging; and the remaining will be sold to raise additional funds for future Simply Slavic events, related events or scholarship.

First Place Winner will be given the opportunity to be a judge for the next year's baking contest.

The First, Second and Third Place winners will have their pictures taken and will be introduced to a large audience at the Simply Slavic event immediately after the winners are announced. Their likenesses will be displayed on the Simply Slavic web site and other media for publicity to promote the Simply Slavic event; or other similar cultural events.

By signing and submitting an entry form to participate as a contestant in the Simply Slavic Baking Contest, you agree to the terms and contest rules of the Simply Slavic baking contest.
